

Rock River Tech Services Website

This is a tech services website advertising the location and services of the business. From your phone or home computer schedule service or find more information about how they can help.

I chose to make the website responsive for the mobile device to see the entire website. The wire frame started as simple one to show info and make it easy for one to get service.

The other options will include more graphics but want it to keep fast load on mobile devices. As prices become more stable, list them for someone to see.

The website design showed me many things about needing time to develop from idea to actual product. I am most proud of making the contact page and having a service modal. I think the background staying one color is the biggest problems. Will work further to make it pleasing for the customer.
